Sweets of Love, Or, Valentine Day.

[Sold at No. 42, Long-Lane.]

THE morning was fair, and all nature round was gay,
I met with young Flo a, and thus to her did say,
Arise my sweet charmer, and make no delay,
And meet your true lover on Valentine's Day.

This blooming young damsel did quickly arise,
And said, gentle swain, you do me much surprise,
What think you my dad and my mammy will say,
If I should go with you, tho' it is Valentine's Day.

As for your dad and mammy, you leave that to me,
Never fear but they and I we soon shall agree, Hark! the birds how they sing, and the lambs sport and play,
To welcome the sweets of Valentine's Day.

This fair maiden she willingly gave her consent,
So then arm in arm o'er the meadows they went,
Where they gang'd to the chu ch, so loving and gay,
And they blest the sweet times of Valentine's Day.

So now in sweet wellock the knot it is ty'd,
This young swain he is blest with a beautiful bride,
The lads and the lasses, so merry and gay, Danc'd on the green on Valentine's Day.

The music so delightful and charming did sound,
Made the groves and vallies to ring, such mirth did abound,
So I'd have you good humour'd, ye blooming and gay,
No doubt you'll get wedded on Valentine's Day.
